

Healing Color

One of your goals for healing is to change the frequencies by which your body communicates within itself to alter its chemistry, brain patterns, nerve patterns, and behavior patterns. Each color has a unique frequency that we, as creatures in the Creation, can access for our healing and adaptation.

Assume a mindfulness posture and breathe. Imagine or focus on the selected color. You can pretend that you are shining with that color, or you can imagine a world around you of the color. You can also focus your mind on objects of that color whether those objects are outside of you or in your imagination.

Hold your focus on the color for 1 or 2 minutes, or until you feel that your body or mind is calmer. Remember to breathe throughout the exercise.