

The FAITH Process

Choose an issue, idea, or event that you would like to explore. You may wish to write it down. Use it to fill in the blanks below.

Then take an alert and upright posture, with your feet on the floor and your spine straight. Be kind to your body and make modifications if you need to. Close your eyes and breathe.

Take your time with each step, pausing often to breathe.

Feelings

As you consider _____, how does it feel?

Our feelings are ours to teach us about ourselves, to guide us, and to train us. They can often be uncomfortable. We can learn to recognize and honor our feelings without allowing them to master us. Recognize whatever you are experiencing with compassion, and breathe.

Awareness without judgment

Gently hold your experience in your awareness.

You might notice a compulsion to push thoughts or feelings away, justify them, or make up a better story. You may even sometimes flush them before your feelings and thoughts have a chance to stick.

Observe whatever tension you may be feeling as you consider _____. Feelings are not right or wrong. They just are. Give yourself permission now to experience them without judgment, and breathe.

Inquiry: what is my body saying?

Bring your attention to your body and notice what it is doing when you consider _____. What sensations are there?

Your body is talking to you. You may not understand its language yet, but you can listen. For example, you might recognize what unfairness or longing feels like in your body. You might recognize courage or curiosity. If your sensations are uncomfortable, move your attention to another area of the body for a few breaths. Then return to respectfully observe those uncomfortable sensations.

Talk with Jesus

You might imagine that you are leaning back in the arms of Jesus and together you are observing and discussing _____. Are you comfortable, uncomfortable, or feel shut-down with Him? Just observe.

What do you believe when you consider _____? What judgments do you want to make?

Do you want to punish or blame yourself, or others? Observe your responses as just information, and breathe with the long exhaling breath.

Heal

God created us to have all of these feelings, and for thousands of years human beings have been feeling like you do. You are not alone in your feelings. You are a human creature.

Feelings are just chemical reactions in our bodies bringing us information. With training we can choose what we will do with those feelings.

You can observe and learn something from what you have just experienced. When a fear or judgment signals us through the body, we can focus on our bodies and our breath, rather than getting caught up in a story and reacting.

Breathe and let this experience take its rightful place in your body with compassion. Help your body process it through the long exhaling breath.

If you wish, continue your healing time with the following practice:

Welcome

As you breathe repeat the word, Welcome.
(Breathe after each statement.)

Welcome this opportunity to safely explore something uncomfortable.
Welcome the comforting Holy Spirit of truth.
Welcome your present reality, and the progress you have made.
Welcome what you are learning about yourself.

Letting go

As you breathe you might consider these statements and make them a confession to the Lord as you turn away from the Idol Self. On the exhale, let go.
(Breathe after each statement.)

"As I explore my portion, I let go of the longing for power and control."
"As I explore my portion, I let go of the longing for esteem and affection."
"As I explore my portion, I let go of the longing for security and comfort."
"As I explore my portion, I let go of the longing for perfection."

Continue to breathe as you close with a simple prayer. You might pray a modified version of the KF meetings' ending prayer, like this:

Dear Father and Creator,
I am so grateful for this time. Hold me in the power of this new understanding as You guide me to my glory and truth. Lead me to the next step in my healing and reorient my life to a more effective flow, to furthering my connection with my True Self and design, with my community and the Creation, and with You, to the glory and honor of my Lord Jesus. Amen.
