

Prayer of Confession

You can use this prayer in all the situations where you realize that you are trying to save your imagined life, with all of its judgments, shoulds, pride, needs, and especially fears.

1. Decide what Fruit of the Spirit is lacking in your life. That becomes your Goal.

Use Galatians 5:22-23 to guide you: "For the fruit/harvest of the spirit is love, joy, peace, 'long-temperedness', kindness, goodness, trustworthiness/ confidence, self-regulated from within. Against such things there is no law." (Nancy's translation)

You might also use 1 Corinthians 13 to examine how you are not walking in true love. See the Love or Pride? List on the worksheets page for an explanation of the various qualities of love listed in this passage.

2. Next, decide what you are doing and feeling that is interfering with the Goal. This is your Interference Pattern.

An example would be holding onto your contemptuous or wrathful judgments of yourself or others for not living up to your legal systems (i.e., your shoulds, taboos, and claims).

Other examples include resisting creaturely limitations or acting out self-hate in self-destructive behaviors (e.g., addictive behaviors or neglecting your physical care).

3. Use the questions below to focus on how you are trying to save your life.

- Do you agree that the Goal is what God would have you do or be?
- Do you agree that through this Interference Pattern you are resisting this goal?
- When we resist, we are trying to save our lives according to our own plans, understanding, or experience. Do you agree that you have been trying to save your life by this Interference Pattern?
- Jesus told us that when we try to save our lives we would end up losing them. Are you experiencing a loss of life through holding on to this Interference Pattern?
- Do you agree that what you have been doing is rebellion, sin, an error, or misorientation motivated by fear?
- Do you want to change this pattern and reorient back to friendship with your true self and its potential, with God and to His will?

4. When you have answered all of these questions thoughtfully and intentionally you can pray your own prayer of confession.

Tell God exactly how it stands while covering the above items in your prayer. You can also use this prayer:

I agree that I am motivated by this Interference Pattern in an effort to save my life. As a result I am losing my life. I confess that I am missing my true purpose and glory through holding this pattern in my body. (Breathe) I release that pattern now, and I release all that I think it has been doing for me. Father and Creator, reorient me back to my glory and to Your will. Heal me and make me whole again that I may fulfill Your will on earth as it is in heaven.
