BIBLE TEACHING

Turn to Romans, chapter 6, in your Bibles.

When people sign up for an immersion course, they immerse themselves in a language, a culture, and a way of life. Their primary goal is to become comfortable in a new way of living, as quickly as possible. In KF, we are immersing ourselves in the better country of karis. Like immigrants, we are learning a new vocabulary, a new culture, and a new way of life. Learning new ways to live always involves suffering, but it is productive suffering. When, however, we dawdle and resist our training, our suffering is lengthy and fatiguing. We find ourselves in chronic self-hate but without the skills to deal with it, and we are torn by conflicting intentions that create a double mind. Perhaps worst of all, we build neuro-pathways of habitual resistance to further change or growth. Our pride system calcifies, and we find ourselves opposed by God and at odds with our created design. The Creation cannot support us because we have stepped out of the flow.

This is Nancy's translation of Romans 6:1–11, with a little paraphrase for clarity.

¹Are we to dawdle in misorientation, hoping to force God into giving us more karis gifts?

²Absolutely not! How shall we, the same people who are dead to misorientation, find life in misorientation? ³Don't you realize that anyone who has been immersed into Christ Jesus has been immersed into His death? ⁴Therefore, we have been buried with Him through immersion into death so that we also might walk around in newness of life, just as through the splendid revelation of the Father's ability, Christ was raised up from those that are dead. ⁵Let me explain. If, like seeds in the ground, we have been planted together with Christ in the likeness of His death, it follows that we will be raised like Him in resurrection. ⁶Knowing this, that our old identity was crucified with Him so that the Idol Self—the whole body of misorientation—might be rendered entirely idle and without influence and we might no longer be the Idol's slaves living misoriented lives. ⁷Think of it this way. The one who has died has been set right—or freed from slavery to misorientation.

⁸If we have died with Christ, we can confidently trust that we also will live with Him. ⁹Christ, having been raised from those that are dead, never dies again. We now understand that death is no longer master over Him, so we need no longer be enslaved by the fear of death. ¹⁰And not only this, but the death that He died, He died once for misorientation; but the life that He lives, He lives continually for God. ¹¹In the same way, take into account that in the register of life you are entered as truly dead to misorientation and, in Christ Jesus, as continually alive to God.

Take deep breath.

In Romans 6, Paul invalidates all of our excuses for not living in newness of life. If we continue to dawdle in misorientation, enslaved by the fear of death, it is our own fault if we suffer misoriented outcomes. And the scary thing is this: we can dawdle until we die. God will let us do that.

But there is an exciting possibility here. If you are in Christ, no matter how old or young, tall or short, rich or poor, good or bad, you are in this material world, and no matter what your background may be, you have the amazing potential of His resurrection life—but it will always be up to you to discover how His life can work through you.

Nancy's translation of Second Corinthians 5:17 goes like this: "If anyone is in Christ, they are a new creation. All that has happened before has passed on, and—look!—everything is new!" (Repeat)

God invites you to experience the real glory of living in and exploring a whole new world of challenges and delights. With training, you can patiently cooperate with the Creator's desire to resurrect your True Self into newness of life.

Our prayer might go something like this:

Creator and God, lead me to my resurrection. (Repeat)

Take a deep breath.

ENDING PRAYER

Dear Father and Creator,

Thank You for drawing us together for healing. Hold us in the power of this new direction as You guide us to our glory and to newness of life. Lead us to the next step in letting go of our old lives as we cooperate with you to reorient toward our True Self, for the glory and honor of our Lord Jesus. Amen.

Take a deep breath.
