

Two Paths Worksheet: Believing v. Judging

We sometimes find ourselves in unproductive situations but don't know how we got there. It might help to begin your exploration in the right-hand column at whatever step seems most clear to you and then work up or down from there. Try to correlate your experience with each step of the Judgment Path. Then take the Believe It Path and imagine how you might respond and what outcome you might achieve. You might enlist the imagination of someone you trust.

BELIEVE IT

12. OUTCOME: What are the possibilities?

11. ACTION: What choices can I make based on truth?

10. REJOICING IN THE TRUTH: What does this event teach me about myself or others?

9. STORY: What are the simple facts about what happened?

8. LOVE BELIEVES: What might be a long-tempered response?

7. EVENT: What triggers the fear or euphoria?

JUDGMENT

1. OUTCOME: What are you experiencing?

2. ACTION: What did I do/avoid that invites this outcome?

3. REJOICING IN THE MISORIENTATION: What emotions do I experience that drive me to act?

4. STORY: What story do I tell that generates these emotions?

5. JUDGING AS GOOD OR EVIL: What is my short-tempered judgment?

6. FEAR OF DEATH, OR EUPHORIA: What standard of my Idol Self is threatened or fulfilled?
