

KF51 Meeting Questions

Facilitator Tip: Try not to say things or make noises that seem to encourage or evaluate another's comments or sharing. If you respond to another's comments with things like, "Oh thank you, that is so helpful!" or "How encouraging!", it can set up a culture of performance and invite others to unconsciously perform for you. Also, these kinds of responses set up a pattern of constant encouragement that becomes meaningless with repetition and wastes time. It can also discourage other members because their sharing or comments might not win approval. Simply say, "Thank you," after someone shares or comments.

Ask whichever questions are of interest to you. After someone responds to a question, you can ask the group if anyone else feels the same or has had a similar experience.

Mindfulness and Meditation

- What do you think John Milton meant when he wrote, "Those that wait, also serve"?
- How is the "Waiting on the Lord" meditation going for you?
- Does the science supporting meditation interest you or perhaps bother you?
- What area of your life is training you in patience?

Toolbox

- How do you know when to give and when to guard?
- What are you learning about the karis flow of circulation?
- Would anyone be willing to share a recent experience of karis flow?

Sharing

(You can ask any of the questions from the Toolbox or Meditation sections)

- Which worksheet have you found most helpful?
- What does "patience" feel like for you?
- What can our episodes of impatience teach us about our Idol's search for glory?

Bible Teaching

- How has your productive suffering led to karis circulation?
- What word describes how you feel when someone offers karis communication, welcome, or service to you?
- How does our karis circulation reveal the attributes of God?
- How does karis circulation reveal the quality of our trust?

Integration

(You can ask any of the questions from the previous sections)

- In one or two words, how would you describe the karis flow?
- In what area of your life might you explore the karis flow?
- What scares you about karis?

End of Meeting