

Suffering: An Opportunity to See Ourselves

THE STORY

1. Who or what do I think is the cause of my suffering?
2. What feelings am I experiencing? (Highlight all the words below that describe your feelings and make a note of any others not listed here)

Longing	Anxious	Defeated	Aggressive	Grief/loss
Exposed	Violated	Embarrassed	Chaotic	Shame
Rigid/numb	Disrespected	Deprived	Hurt/pain	Sad
Threatened	Disillusioned	Indignant	Abused	Vengeful
Enraged/angry	Meaningless	Self-loathing	Abandoned	Intolerant
Resentful	Obsessing	Attacked	Cheated	Vindictive
Frustrated	Powerless/trapped	Overwhelmed	Restless	Compulsive
Failed	Helpless	Panicky	Tired	Put-upon
Not good enough	Hopeless	Guilty	Worthless	Polluted

3. What other symptoms am I experiencing (e.g., shaking or wringing hands, bingeing, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, twitches, digestive distress, headaches, unsafe driving or self-destructive choices, fatigue, awkwardness, heart issues, faintness, inner conversations, tight throat and chest, numbness/no feeling)?
4. Have I experienced this type of suffering before? (Y for yes and N for no*) Y / N
5. Anniversary trauma: Do I feel this way at the same time every month or every year? Y / N
If yes, in what way and for how long?

PRIDE

1. How should this situation be? Write down a plain statement of fact.
2. What judgment am I making about this situation? Is it good or bad? Why?
3. What stories am I using to explain my fear and justify my suffering? (Highlight those that apply)
 - Fortune-telling: predicting the future and basing feelings on that prediction
 - Disaster fantasies: creating nightmare scenarios above and beyond current facts
 - Mind-reading: imputing thoughts and motives to others
 - Personalizing: interpreting circumstances and the actions of others as a personal attack
 - Punching: choosing loaded words to reinforce my feelings or create more drama

- Extreme thinking: using absolute terms like always, every, never, best, etc.
- Over-generalizing: globalizing a few incidents into general experience
- Magic: expecting results from no real effort and denying the reality of cause and effect
- Discounting: ignoring the positive aspects of a situation
- Unfairness: judging a situation or event to be unfair
- Dismissing: “If it weren’t for . . . everything would be fine.”
- Logical conclusions: focusing on one logical conclusion that excludes possibilities
- Dead end thinking: “I had to do it [think it, feel it, choose it] because . . .”
- Deja vu: “It’s all going to happen all over again.”

Write down your virtue story. Here are some examples: I would make a mess. I just have high standards. I want to protect you. God wouldn’t like it. I’m loyal to my friends/beliefs. I’m taking care of myself/others. I’m the only one who can handle it. It feels right—I just know. God/Satan forced me to do it. I’m unselfish. I’m special/handicapped. I need to feel supported and understood. My intentions are good.

THE MIRROR

1. Will you take responsibility for your participation in, and the perpetuation of, your suffering? Y / N
2. Will you accept the possibility that you may be creating your own suffering? Y / N
3. Does this suffering reveal that there is an area of your life that needs to change? Y / N
4. Are you willing to make necessary changes? Y / N
5. Does this suffering reveal hurt pride and the need to be right? Y / N
6. Are you more willing to be well than to be right? Y / N

WISDOM

1. Do you want to learn wisdom from above? Y / N
2. Look at these two lists based on James 3:13–18. What has been revealed about you through this suffering? (Highlight the words or phrases that apply to you)

Wisdom from above

Cleverness in practical matters

Skill

Excellent behavior

Using tools gently

Holiness

Mercy and compassion

Producing good outcomes

Wisdom from below

Inner conflicts

Competition for my resources

Compelling selfish ambition

Taking cheap, habitual shortcuts to relieve tension

Lost connection with heaven

Egocentricity

Producing disorder

GUIDING YOURSELF INTO JOY

1. Are you willing to allow the possibility that your current suffering is for your training? Y / N
2. Do you share God's vision for you to be complete and lacking in nothing, according to His design? Y / N
3. Which areas of your life reveal a need for more training?

ACTION

Use a tap, TAT, Healing Color, UFO Hold, or meditation to calm the fear and struggle.

1. Am I asking, seeking, and knocking to find help? Y / N
2. What might be the next step to help relieve my suffering?
3. What long-term practice will help prevent or modify this suffering in the future?

PRAYER

Dear Father and Creator,

I can see this suffering as a path toward growing into the person You created me to be. I want to take responsibility for my part in my suffering. I am willing to give up my ideas of how life should be on my terms and respond to life as it is. Support me as I use this time of suffering to explore my illusions, my weaknesses, and the quality of my faith. Bring me to a healing space. I will use the tools and support that You have given me. I will rejoice in learning the truth about these areas of my life that still need training. I trust You to build the character I need to fulfill my mission for the glory and honor of my Lord Jesus. Amen.